

Follow-up Workshop/Focus Group Outline

After the landscape design is completed, a group of participants will be invited to participate in a workshop to review and evaluate the design proposal. We will purposefully recruit 8-10 participants from those who indicated interests of participation in the survey phase, and the ideal composition of the group of participants should include representatives from all user groups. The workshop/focus group will be hosted via Zoom and the PI of the project will serve as a facilitator.

The workshop/focus group will be organized according to the five stages listed below:

- (1) Warm-up and ice breaking conversations.
- (2) Presentation of the design proposal by the PI.
- (3) Discuss each programmed area and encourage participants to make comments. Participants will be invited to draw and make changes to the landscape design features via the annotation function provided by zoom.
- (4) Evaluations of various landscape design features according to participants' preferences. This will be conducted through the poll function provided by Zoom, or a Likert scale by Qualtrics.
- (5) Wrap-up and summarization of participants opinions. The workshop/focus group will be recorded.

Conversations will be transcribed, and any drawings, diagrams, narrative or visual products generated during the workshop will be included in the data analysis phase.
